PASS THE BATON

Domestic Sector Factsheet

Commonwealth Games Scotland and the Glasgow 2014 Organising Committee are bringing the baton home to Scotland.

On 9 October 2013, the Glasgow 2014 Queen's Baton Relay set off on its journey around all 70 nations and territories of the Commonwealth. The International Sector of the journey lasts 248 days, covers more than 190,000 kilometres and crosses continents, terrains and time zones.

On Saturday 14 June 2014, the baton enters the final straight. It comes home to Scotland and will spend a further 40 days visiting communities in all 32 Local Authority areas. Delivered in partnership with Commonwealth Games Scotland, the final leg of the relay brings the host nation one step closer to the thrill of the Games, building anticipation and an enormous sense of pride.

The Domestic Sector of the Queen's Baton Relay showcases all that Scotland and Glasgow have to offer — from stunning scenery and architecture to famous culture and hospitality. It gives the people of Scotland the chance to come out and line the streets, showing their support for Team Scotland and the Games.

Crossing the border from England, the relay will travel the length and breadth of Scotland through breathtaking landscapes. Covering more than 4,000 kilometres across land, air and sea, the baton will visit the country's most iconic destinations. From windswept coastlines to mountain passes to bustling city centres, the Scottish leg of the journey will be filled with striking vistas and community celebration.

Up to 4,000 batonbearers will have the honour of carrying the baton, including those nominated in recognition of their contributions to local sport, community and youth. The batonbearer nomination and selection process will be supported by Commonwealth Games Scotland.

Approximately 100 batonbearers will carry the baton each day, and the relay will reach hundreds of villages, towns and cities during its 40 days in Scotland.

The relay will reflect the important role that sport plays in local communities by visiting schools, sporting venues and leisure & recreation centres, with events and activities supported by the sportscotland Active Schools Network.

From festivals to sports days to decorating the high street, people will be able to mark the baton's arrival in all sorts of creative and inspiring ways. As the relay is embraced by communities all over Scotland, it will act as an exciting, dramatic and inclusive countdown to the Games.

The 288 day relay concludes on 23 July 2014 at the Opening Ceremony, when the baton is delivered back to Her Majesty The Queen. After reading Her message of welcome to the athletes of the Commonwealth, the Games will officially begin.
